Purpose:

This policy outlines Massey University’s commitment to uphold Te Tiriti o Waitangi and its associated principles.

Introduction:

Massey University is “committed to demonstrating authentic leadership in contemporary Aotearoa New Zealand as we uphold Te Tiriti o Waitangi, the founding document of our nation, and its principles through our practice. We see this as a critical requirement to advance more inclusive and socially progressive outcomes for Aotearoa New Zealand” (MU Strategy 2022-2027, p. 6). While sec. 281(1)(b) of the Education and Training Act 2020 requires tertiary councils “to acknowledge the principles of Te Tiriti”, the University further embraces the overarching vision of the Act to progress an education system for Aotearoa New Zealand that “honours Te Tiriti o Waitangi” (sec. 4(d)) and the benefits of this vision for our staff, students, and wider communities.

As a foundation for Massey University’s practice and development into the future, Te Tiriti o Waitangi and its associated principles are reflected across all of the University’s four pou, or strategic pillars: Pou Tangata – People; Pou Rangahau – Research; Pou Ako – Teaching and Learning and Pou Hono – Connection.

Massey University further upholds Te Tiriti o Waitangi as a commitment to be embraced by all staff, where both Tangata Whenua (Māori) staff and Tangata Tiriti (Pākehā, Pacific and Tauwiwi / New migrant) staff have valuable contributions to make towards achieving our Te Tiriti aspirations. We pursue the attainment of these aspirations in the spirit of solidarity, cooperation and openness to new understandings and exploration of Te Tiriti as a framework unique to Aotearoa that helps define us within the world.

We further undergo this work knowing our understandings and efforts to implement Te Tiriti will change and evolve over time as society changes and evolves, to build on our strengths and achievements and to meet new challenges and opportunities in the future.

Definitions:

Te Tiriti o Waitangi refers to the Te Reo Māori (Māori Language) text of the treaty between hapū and the British Crown first signed at Waitangi in 1840. The Treaty of Waitangi (English language texts) is relevant to this policy where the provisions of the Treaty support and inform current day application of Te Tiriti, such as the Treaty principles.

Provisions in this policy refers to the specific terms and phrases from the Te Tiriti texts.

Principles in this policy refers to the principles that assist with the contemporary application of the provisions of Te Tiriti and, where relevant, the Treaty, as defined by the Waitangi Tribunal, New Zealand courts, government policy and other Crown entities.

Policy:

The University acknowledges the following Te Tiriti o Waitangi provisions and associated principles:

- From Article One: the provision of Kāwanatanga (Governance) and the principles of Good governance, Fiduciary duty and Partnership.
- From Article Two: the provision of Tino Rangatiratanga (Independence) and the principles of Māori Authority, Autonomy, and Self-determination.
- From Article Two: the provision of Taonga (Māori treasures) and the principles of Active Protection and Development.
- From Article Three: the provision of Ngā tikanga katoa rite tahi (All the rights) and the principles of Access, Participation, Options, Equity and Equal outcomes.
- From Article Four: the provision of Te ritenga Māori (Māori customs) and the principle of Honouring Māori cultural-spiritual values and practices.

Specifically, the University will uphold Te Tiriti o Waitangi through our:

1. Kāwanatanga: Good governance, Fiduciary duty, and Partnership

- progression, innovation, and leadership of the University as a vehicle for strategic Māori and national development.
- decision-making, funding and resource allocation cognisant of Māori development goals, priorities, needs, and aspirations as determined by Māori;

- partnerships with iwi representations (mana whenua) of each of the university's three campuses, including: Te Rūnanga o Ngāti Whātua (Ōteihā Campus); Rangitāne o Manawatū (Manawatū Campus); Te Rūnanganui o Te Ātiawa o Te Ūpoko o Te Ika Inc (Pukeahu Campus). relationships with Māori authorities, such as iwi, hapū, marae, urban Māori authorities and other Māori expertise collectives, to partner in the advancement of Māori development goals, and.
- creation and further development of opportunities and spaces for dialogue and development of new knowledge and understandings about Te Tiriti, and our collective responsibilities in honouring its provisions and principles.

2. Tino Rangatiratanga: Māori Authority, Autonomy and Self-determination

- acknowledgement of the special status of Māori as Tangata Whenua (the Indigenous peoples of Aotearoa) with rights to authority and autonomy over matters pertaining to Te Ao Māori (the Māori world).
- recognition of the right, and support of, Māori to determine, represent and advance Māori development goals, priorities, needs and aspirations both at and through the work of the University.
- ongoing development of Māori leadership and expertise at and through the work of the University, for the greater realisation of Māori self-determination at the University, locally and nationwide, and.
- commitment to increasing the presence and progression of Māori staff across and at all levels of the University.

3. Taonga: Active Protection and Development

- acknowledgement of the special status of taonga, including te reo Māori (the Māori language), mātauranga Māori (Māori knowledges), ako Māori (Māori pedagogies) and toi Māori (Māori creative works and processes) as unique treasures Indigenous to Aotearoa New Zealand.
- efforts to actively restore, revitalise and protect taonga Māori, both tangible (such as lands, waterbodies, creative works) and intangible (such as language, knowledges, pedagogies, worldviews) at and through the work of the University.
- recognition of the right, and support of, Māori to restore, maintain and further develop taonga Māori through access to, and utilization and development of, current and emerging technologies, and.
- recognition of, and provisions for, the right of Māori learners to access taonga Māori as valued and everyday aspects of teaching, learning, research, and life at the University.

4. Ngā tikanga katoa rite tahi: Access, Participation, Options, Equity and Equal outcomes

- work to enhance Māori learner access, participation, success, and excellence, as determined by Māori, at all levels of provision (undergraduate and postgraduate) of the University.
- commitment to achieving more equitable outcomes for all Māori learners and their whānau, hapū, iwi, and communities to whom they belong, at and through the work of the University, in wider society.
- ongoing provision of and investment in kaupapa Māori (Māori language, knowledges and pedagogy) pathways of study as essential options for Māori learners and their whānau engaging in tertiary education in Aotearoa New Zealand, and.

- ongoing provision of, investment in, and exploration of practices, services, initiatives and activities known to improve tertiary education outcomes for Māori learners.

5. Te ritenga Māori: Honouring Māori cultural-spiritual values and practices

- acknowledgement of the special status of tikanga and kawa (Māori laws and protocols) and Māori philosophies and practices pertaining to hauora (health and wellbeing) as Indigenous to Aotearoa New Zealand.
- recognition of the centrality of Māori philosophies and worldviews, such as Te Whare Tapawha that acknowledges spiritual, physical, mental/emotional, and collective/relationship elements, to the provision of tertiary education that is responsive to the health and wellbeing needs and aspirations of Māori learners and their whānau.
- commitment to nurture the wellbeing and potential of Māori learners throughout all aspects of university life, and to reflect this commitment in the policies and practices at the University, for example the Academic Freedom Policy (2022) that states the freedoms of academic speech and expression “ought not to contravene, undermine, or diminish” (p. 5) the status or rights of Māori as Tangata whenua, and.
- work to progress University spaces, systems and processes that provide for Māori cultural-spiritual values and practices as a valued, everyday characteristic of life at the University for all staff, students, whānau/families and our wider communities.

Implementation:

Implementation of this policy will be guided by specific commitments in University strategies, planning and projects across all areas of the University: Pou Tangata – People, Pou Rangahau – Research, Pou Ako – Teaching and Learning, and Pou Hono – Connection. Please see Appendix A for examples of current commitments made within the Massey University Strategy 2022-2027.

Responsibility for progressing the University’s Te Tiriti commitments will rest with all leaders and managers of the University and is to be accounted for in their annual planning and reporting.

The Office of the DVC Māori office will be available to provide Te Tiriti advice and guidance and to support the development of Te Tiriti plans, projects and initiatives as required.
