Head of School’s Report

The School of Accountancy had many achievements in 2010. CPA Australia renewed the School’s re-accreditation of the BAcc and BBS (Accounting Major) programs for the maximum period of 5 years to 2015. Graduates of the re-accredited programs will be eligible to apply for associate membership provided that all required core curriculum subjects are completed. The School is also accredited by NZICA, ACCA and CIMA.

At the beginning of the year, students of the School at the Albany campus established a Beta Alpha Psi (BAP) chapter. This new chapter is the third chapter established outside the US. Beta Alpha Psi is an international honours society for students studying accounting, finance and information systems. The Albany chapter was officially launched in July in a ceremonial event attended by over 70 invited guests from academic, public and private organisations. The chapter had a successful first year. It engaged in a wide range of activities involving students and the professional community. The President elect of BAP International, Professor Teresa Conover, visited the chapter in April 2010 and congratulated the chapter executive and members on their active programme and their enthusiasm.

Students from the School were recognised at national and international business competitions and were granted many scholarly awards and scholarships, which include the Massey Purehuroa Award, NZICA Leadership and Executive Insight Awards, and the Lovell and Berys Clarke Scholarship. Our students won the NZICA Student Challenge and received major awards at the NZICA Executive Insight.

Staff from the School were appointed as the new editors of Pacific Accounting Review, a leading NZ based journal in accounting and finance. Congratulations to Professors Mike Bradbury, Jill Hooks and Asheq Rahman who took responsibility for the journal.

Staff presented papers at many international accounting conferences which include the Sixth Asia Pacific Interdisciplinary Research in Accounting Conference, The Australasian Tax Teachers’ Conference, both in Sydney, NSW, Conference of the Asian Academic Accounting Association, Bangkok Thailand, Conference of the British Accounting Association, Cardiff, UK, the European Accounting Association 33rd Annual Congress, Istanbul, Turkey, the Annual Meeting of the American Accounting Association, San Francisco, CAL, and the Sixth Accounting History Accounting Association, Wellington, New Zealand.

The School continues to run its Discussion Paper and International Seminar Series as part of its research culture. Professor Jill Hooks is the new editor of the Discussion Paper Series.

We look forward to another year of achievements in 2011. Quality research, innovative teaching and enhanced delivery, and positive engagement with the profession and community remain top priorities for the School. The School will continue to offer high quality academic support to its staff, postgraduate and undergraduate students.

The Determinants of Audit Fees in the US and New Zealand in the Post SOX Period

This study examines the audit fee determinants in both US and New Zealand after the introduction of SOX (US) and corporate governance principles (NZ), respectively. This study extends previous studies that looked at the determinants of audit fees by including the audit committee characteristics and executive compensation as additional factors. This study is motivated by the increasing interest of the academic and business communities regarding the level and structure of executive compensation and the role played by the various committees of the board of directors. In this paper, I examine how audit fees are determined by various factors that includes executive compensation, audit committee and the regulatory changes. I contend that audit and non-audit fee changes should reflect a stronger association with local governance regulations such as the adoption of NZ IFRS and NZX rules, and a weaker association with international regulations such as SOX. I also contend audit fees are associated with independent audit committee and executive compensation.

Corporate Governance and Firm Performance: A Study on the Tradeoff Between Real and Accrual-Based Manipulation as Mediating Factors

Prior literature provides evidence that managers use both accruals earnings management (AM) and real activities manipulation (RM) to achieve desired earnings objective. But few have studied the role of governance on RM. Cohen et al. (2007) document firms switching from AM to RM after the passage of Sarbanes-Oxley Act (SOX). I expect RM could do more harm than AM on future performance. The implication is that opportunistic managers in better governance firms are more likely to manipulate earnings through RM such as reducing R&D expenses, resulting in worse future performance.

In my study, I will use 2-stage path analysis to examine the relationship between corporate governance and future performance through AM and RM as mediating factors. In the first stage, I will investigate whether corporate governance affects the trade-off between AM and RM. In the second stage, I will explore the consequence of each type of manipulations on future firm performance. Due to the study involves multiple dependent variables that could be correlated with each other, I will adopt some multivariate statistical methods in the analysis, such as PCA, clustering, and RDA.

Disclosure of Corporate Code of Ethics

There have been increasing calls for corporate governance reforms in countries engaged in capitalistic pursuits in the past few decades. Subsumed in these calls is the drive to restore public interest and to promote better ethics among business professionals. In an era of increasing emphasis on corporate accountability, pressures for corporate betterment come not only from those who purportedly have a "stake" in corporations but also from the corporations themselves. This is reflected in the increasing number of corporations producing codes of ethics to show their ethical commitments.

Research into corporate codes of ethics has identified a variety of reasons why corporations produce codes of ethics. Most of such reasons tend to be functional and descriptive in nature and are not sufficiently insightful in their explanations. The purpose of this study is to go beyond functionality and provide a better understanding of the underlying reasons for ethical disclosures by corporations. Institutional theory is adopted to explain the conceptual component of the study, which includes a critical examination of the intricate relationships between business ethics and trust, the pressures confronting corporations, the prevalence of corporate codes of ethics, and the various reasons for code adoption. A set of propositions focused on the underlying reasons for code disclosures by companies is developed and their validity will be tested empirically by examining the ethics disclosures of the top 1000 U.S. companies between 2000 and 2010. It is hoped that such an analysis will help to explain the actions taken by the corporations to increase their ethics and trust propensity in light of regulatory guidance and any other motivations.

Volatility and Value Relevance of Comprehensive Income

This thesis investigates the issue of volatility and value relevance of comprehensive income. IASB’s latest exposure draft (IASB, 2010) proposes a single statement of comprehensive income (CI). I segment the thesis into three parts. First I investigate the volatility of CI and observe its relation with market measures of risk. Second I measure whether CI is a better measure to summarize firm’s performance. Third I assess whether CI has better predictive power to predict future operating cash flows, future net income and future CI. As asset revaluations are voluntary under IAS 16 Property, Plant and Equipment, I will show the impact on the volatility of CI, with and without revaluations.

Corporate Governance and Stock Price Synchronicity: An International Comparison

Stock price synchronicity is the tendency of stock prices to move in the same direction in a particular period of time. Morck, Yeung and Yu (MYY, 2000, using 1995 data, document that stock prices move together more (less) in low (high) GDP economies due to difference in variations in property rights arrangement of the sample countries. They also report that stock price synchronicity, defined as $R^2$ (coefficient of determination) from asset pricing model, is a useful measure of the amount of firm-specific information impounded in stock prices in international markets. Recent empirical research argues that $R^2$ does not capture firm-specific information (sales, ROA, ROE, and Size) and states that $R^2$ is affected by many other variables such as a country’s economic variables, and corporate governance measures. The question is whether GDP is the only driver of stock price synchronicity or whether firm-specific information also plays a role in stock price co-movement. The study investigates other determinants of stock price synchronicity beyond GDP specifically to explore the relation between $R^2$ and firm-specific information.

Since 1995, most of the world’s capital markets and economies have experienced many significant changes which have been brought about due to economic and corporate crises. The changes are mostly about the way corporations are governed. Most of the countries have incorporated regulatory, institutional, accounting standard-setting and CG reforms, e.g. the Sarbanes-Oxley Act (2002), Corporate Law Economic Reforms Program (CLERP, 2004), IFRS (2001), and Codes of corporate governance. There has also been a considerable shift in the political and economic systems of many of the countries of the world. These improvements in regulatory and institutional regimes and the shift towards the market system by many developing countries raise the question of whether these changes have any beneficial effects on the determinants and level of stock price co-movements. Therefore, the study investigates the effects of improved regulatory and institutional changes in reducing stock price synchronicity.

Performance Auditing and Public Sector Accountability: A Fijian Case Study

Public sector auditing has expanded from providing an independent and professional assurance on the usage of resources by the government to a wide range of management issues including performance auditing (Burrowes and Persson, 2000; Parker, 1990). A historical analysis of the Anglo-American literature on development and emergence of public sector performance auditing indicates that there were various factors, which led to the development of performance auditing. Some of these factors are: public sector auditing profession, the changes in the legislature and statutes, calls for greater government accountability in the use of public sector resources by social and other lobby groups and, in some instances, the government itself. Literature on performance auditing has established that it is widely accepted that performance-auditing focuses on economy, efficiency and effectiveness but a clearly defined meaning of these concepts is not easily discernible. Nonetheless, advocates of performance auditing promote the view that performance auditing would improve public sector accountability by focusing on the way the public sector resources are managed.
In the Fijian context, the Fijian Audit Office implemented public sector performance auditing and then it was withdrawn. The aim of this research project is to understand the practice and the processes by which performance auditing was undertaken and then withdrawn in Fiji by the Fiji Audit Office. The research project is also aims to establish a theoretical meaning of economy, efficiency and effectiveness.

The research will be grounded in Laughlin’s (1995) Middle Range Theory in which a skeletal framework for both methodology and theory are fleshed out in the context of an empirical research.

Taxing Food in New Zealand: Will a Fat Tax Reduce Obesity?

Obesity is an increasing problem in New Zealand, with the consequent increased health costs of heart disease, strokes and diabetes. The proposed research addresses the problem of obesity by investigating the effect of a tax on obesogenic foods, particularly those which are high in fat and sugar. The research explores the economic rationale for implementing food taxes, and how food tax policy should be designed and implemented in the context of the current New Zealand health and tax systems. This will be undertaken by using the Linear Expenditure System, a behavioural microsimulation model, to measure the welfare effects of an indirect tax on NZ households using the Household Economic Survey as a dataset.

The Impact of Culture, Corporate Characteristics and Governance on Corporate Social Reporting of Malaysian Shariah-Approved Companies

The Islamic capital market (ICM) is one of the fastest growing segments of today's financial system in Malaysia. It plays an important complementary role to the conventional market, functioning as a significantly large alternative market for capital seekers and providers. It provides a range of instruments which comply with Islamic principles and are available to all investors who would like to participate in investments that abide by those principles or simply want to take part in ethical investments.

The objective of my work is to investigate the extent of corporate social disclosure (conventional disclosure items and Islamic disclosure items) in the annual reports of Shariah-approved companies (ShAC), one of the components of the ICM. Additionally, I aim to provide a better understanding of the potential effects of culture, corporate characteristics and governance on the level of disclosure by examining the relationship between the extent of disclosure and these factors. Since ShAC are expected to serve social responsibility norms, i.e., social justice, fairness and well-being of society, they are likely to create a demand for corporate social reporting (CSR).

The Impact of International Financial Reporting Standards (IFRS): A Study of Early Adopters in New Zealand

The aim of the research is to investigate the impact that IFRS has had on reporting entities in New Zealand, that have elected to adopt IFRS before it became mandatory to do so as from 1 January 2007 (“Early Adopters”), and to investigate why these entities chose to adopt early.

The unique contribution of the proposed study is that it will provide early empirical evidence for New Zealand regarding the impact of IFRS, as well as extending the relatively limited understanding we currently have of motivation for early adoption in the face of sweeping changes to accounting standards.

Specifically, the intention is to conduct both quantitative and qualitative research to identify the significance of financial as well as non-financial impacts of the switch from New Zealand Generally Accepted Accounting Practice (NZ GAAP) to IFRS. These impacts are to be measured mainly by analysis of financial statements in the year of adoption of IFRS, but are also to be supplemented by use of questionnaires which are to be followed up, where appropriate, by interviews. The information acquired relating to these impacts is to be evaluated within the framework of Positive Accounting Theory, namely that Early Adopters are likely to be motivated by self-interest, which may arise in a variety of different ways. While the quantitative aspects of the study should answer questions concerning what impacts and what reasons there were for early adoption, the qualitative aspects of the study should build on this to provide a richer understanding and additional insights/tacit themes, from various perspectives, that would be unlikely to otherwise have emerged. It will focus on descriptions of how and why in relation to impacts of/motivation for the early adoption of IFRS and it will be open to perspectives additional to those which may arise within the Positive Accounting Theory framework.

Massey accountancy students recognised at NZICA Leadership Awards

Lynda Low and Sheryn Becker, senior undergraduate accountancy students at Massey Albany campus, won the New Zealand Institute of Chartered Accountants (NZICA) Student Challenge, a national competition for undergraduate accounting students. The project required recommending whether a proposed Visitors Centre is economically viable for Whale Watch Kaikoura. This involved doing an environmental analysis, researching potential customers, identifying optimal pricing structures, and offering further cash-flow generating ideas. Lynda and Sheryn presented their findings in a written report, PowerPoint slides, and a five minute video clip.

The NZICA website reported that many tertiary students from around the country took part in the competition, putting themselves in the shoes of a Chartered Accountant and preparing a report on a real-life issue for iconic tourism operator Whale Watch Kaikoura. The NZICA Student Challenge was an opportunity for up and coming accounting students to be recognised by New Zealand’s prominent business leaders and gain invaluable experience for their CV.

Low and Becker received an all-expenses paid trip to London, where they will spend a week early next year shadowing high profile New Zealand and Australian Chartered Accountants. You can view the details of Lynda and Sheryn’s winning entry on NZICA’s website: http://www.nzica.com/AM/Template.cfm?Section=2010_winners. The School of Accountancy congratulates Lynda and Sheryn on their achievement.
Wellington Campus Jerry Hubbard, senior Business Law lecturer, won an award for best textbook

Senior Business Law Lecturer Jerry Hubbard was the co-author of the book Principles of Law for New Zealand Business Students which won the 2010 Copyright Licensing Ltd (CLL) Educational Publishing Award “Best Book in Higher Education Publishing.” This was the first year of this award established by Copyright Licensing Ltd. The Education Publishing Awards are awarded jointly to the publisher and the authors since the typographical element is equally important with the text. This is especially the case with texts on law – which could be generally improved to become more attractive publications.

The text is in its fourth edition. The first edition was published in 1999. It is used by a number of tertiary providers including universities. There is also a supporting web site with interactive tests for students – and power point presentations for instructors. The award was presented in Auckland on 18 November 2010.

Tim Kirkpatrick, Honours student, participated in international competitions

Congratulations to Tim Kirkpatrick, a student in the Accountancy Honours programme for being part of two successful teams:

CFA Global Investment Research Challenge was a finance competition, where the goal was to value a selected company (Cavalier Corporation). This team was coached by Associate Professor Russell Gregory-Allan, School of Economics and Finance.

Citi International Business Case Competition - Tim was a member of a team of four that attended this business case competition, held in Hong Kong. Massey was the only entrant from New Zealand (http://www.bm.ust.hk/ug/CICC/teams.html).

This competition involved 26 hours for the team to analyse a business case (which the team had no prior access to) and to formulate a strategy and implementation plan for the company over the next five to ten years. This strategy was then presented to a panel of judges, often including industry experts and members of the company’s senior management. The result of the competition was announced through a press release on 5 November 2010. The Champion Team was from the University of Western Ontario, Canada.

Executive Insight 2010

2010 is the 9th consecutive year that the Executive Insight Programme is run on each campus with the local branch of the New Zealand Institute of Chartered Accountants (NZICA). The programme aims to give students insight into executive roles and the commercial decision-making process, and to broaden their views of potential career paths in accounting-related functions. Each participant works with a carefully selected host organisation over a three-day period, usually late in August. Participants receive a certificate on successful completion of the programme, but usually find that the main benefits are the contacts that they make and the insights that they gain into how organisations actually work.

Three students from the Albany campus were selected for the Executive Insight programme in 2010: Michelle Howlett, Timothy Kirkpatrick and Tafadzwa Mutizira. Michelle was hosted by Telecom, Timothy by Pacific Steel Group and Tafadzwa by Air Liquide. The students really enjoyed their experience and gained valuable insights into the role of business executives and business life. They became aware that personality, experiences and interpersonal skills are key components of success and as the CEO of Telecom, Dr Reynolds, said when talking about business with Michelle: "Enthusiasm, energy and integrity make up for what you don't have in a qualification". The students who take part in Executive Insight are required to submit a report to the NZ Institute of Chartered Accountants. Michelle Howlett received the award for the best report which was an outstanding achievement given that she was competing with students from the five Auckland tertiary institutions.

At the Manawatu Campus, Nicholas Dow attended Executive Insight Programme at Massey University Finance Section, Palmerston North and prepared a report on the learning experience that the programme provided him with.

Wellington Campus student Michael Parker won the Judges Award at the NZICA Wellington Executive Insight Programme by designing an innovative website for the Wellington City Council which captured the attention of the judges.

Academic Programmes and Accreditation

Professional Accreditation

AACSB Accreditation - College of Business

In November 2009, Massey University College of Business achieved international accreditation for its business degrees; Bachelor of Business Studies (BBS), Bachelor of Accountancy (BAcc), Bachelor of Applied Economics (BAppEcon), Master of Business Administration (MBA), Master of Business Studies (MBS), Master of Finance (MFin) Master of Management (MMgt), Doctor of Business Administration (DBA) and its Doctor of Philosophy (PhD) programme in business.

AACSB is a professional association for college and university management education institutions and is the premier accrediting agency for bachelor’s, master’s, and doctoral degree programs in business administration and accounting. Of around 10,000 business schools in the world, fewer than 600 are accredited by AACSB International - The Association to Advance Collegiate Schools of Business. The accreditation represents the highest standard of achievement for business schools worldwide. See http://www.aacsb.edu/.

School of Accountancy Accreditation

Bachelor of Accountancy (BAcc) and Bachelor of Business Studies (BBS)

In late 2010 the School received news from Certified Practising Accountants (CPA) Australia that it has been granted another 5 years accreditation.

The School of Accountancy also has accreditation from the following professional bodies:-

- Chartered Institute of Management Accountants (CIMA) (UK)
- Association of Chartered Certified Accountants (ACCA) UK
- New Zealand Institute of Chartered Accountants (NZICA)
Academic Programmes

Semesters and Summer School

The Massey University academic year is divided into three main teaching periods: Semester One, Semester Two and Summer School. Most of the School’s programmes of study and papers fit into these standard semester periods although the School’s Summer study programmes have become increasingly popular.

Internal and Extramural Studies

Some papers in the School are offered internally and extramurally. Some others are offered internally or extramurally. Extramural programmes offer opportunities for long distance study at the comfort of a student’s own environment. Extramural programmes may include contact/block courses. Contact courses are a chance for students to receive face-to-face tuition from lecturers and to interact with other students taking the same paper. Contact courses may be held at the Albany, Manawatu and Wellington Campuses of Massey University, as well as at a Christchurch venue. Some papers are offered in block mode. This means students are required to attend one or more periods of intensive study usually either in the Manawatu or Albany Campus.

Undergraduate Programmes

Bachelor of Accountancy (BAcc)

The Bachelor of Accountancy (BAcc) is a highly specialised degree, identifying you as having expertise in Accountancy. It is the degree for students who know they wish to specialise as Accountants and seek NZICA membership.

Accountancy Major in the Bachelor of Business Studies (BBS)

The 2008 BBS Accountancy major is very flexible and gives you the opportunity to have a concentration in a particular area of accountancy. You can also combine the Accountancy major with one offered by another Department to complete the BBS with a double major. Career options will be many and varied depending on the combination of papers you choose to take.

Graduate Diploma in Business Studies (GradDipBusStuds)

The Graduate Diploma in Business Studies (GradDipBusStuds) is designed for students who wish to develop new or additional professional skills to open up and enhance vocational possibilities. The GradDipBusStuds may be completed in one year of full-time study or over a period of time as part-time study.

Postgraduate Programmes

The courses of study offered by the School of Accountancy at the graduate level are aimed at preparing a more independent and inquiring mind. Through their course work, students are encouraged to conduct systematic inquiry into specific issues and discover new information or relationships and/or expand or verify existing knowledge for some identified purpose.
The School of Accountancy offers graduate programmes at Postgraduate Diploma and Masters levels, leading to:

- Doctor of Philosophy (PhD)
- Master of Philosophy (MPhil)
- Master of Business Studies (MBS)
- Master of Business Studies (Accountancy)
- Master of Business Studies (Business Law)
- Master of Management (MMgt)
