The School started the year 2013 with the launching of the new Master of Professional Accounting and Finance degree (MPAF). The MPAF is the only professional Master’s degree in New Zealand where the two popular business disciplines, accountancy and finance, have been combined. The MPAF is accredited by the New Zealand Institute of Chartered Accountants (NZICA), ACCA and CPA Australia.

In 2013, the School was re-accredited by the Chartered Institute of Management Accountants (CIMA UK) and the New Zealand Institute of Accountants (NZICA) for another maximum period of 5 years. CIMA and NZICA accreditations join our existing accreditations by the Association of Chartered Certified Accountants (ACCA UK) and Certified Practising Accountants (CPA Australia). Accreditation to professional accounting bodies is important for the School, indicating our long standing commitment to quality education for our students that meet the highest professional standards.

The Massey University Beta Alpha Psi Chapter on the Albany Campus, mentored by faculty advisor Professor Asheq Rahman, achieved a Distinguished Status in 2013 which was a significant achievement. The Chapter had excelled in the areas of academics, professionalism and leadership. Well done!

Congratulations to Dr Radiah Othman. Her co-authored paper titled ‘Information asymmetry and regulatory shortcomings in profit sharing investment accounts’ published in the International Journal of Islamic and Middle Eastern Finance and Management 5(4) was chosen as a Highly Commended Award Winner at the Literati Network Awards for Excellence 2013 by international publisher Emerald (UK). Dr Othman also won the Pearson Best Author Award 2013 awarded by Pearson Malaysia for her contribution to a book titled ‘Public Sector Accounting – Malaysian Context’ (3rd Edition).

Lindsay Hawkes received the 2013 Excellence in Distance Teaching Award from the College of Business for teaching innovation and dedication in supporting distance learning students. This award recognised an experienced member of staff who had demonstrated excellent results or innovation in teaching via distance through a well-structured course and excellent on-line support. Congratulations Lindsay on the award for your excellent work in distance teaching.

Dr Nives Botica Redmayne received a substantial research grant from the CPA Australia Global Research Perspectives Program for her research project proposal with her co-researchers in the area of auditing regulations. Professor Jill Hooks was awarded a CPA (Australia) Global Perspectives Research Scholarship. Congratulations to both.

Dr Lei Cai, lecturer, completed his PhD studies in 2013. His study examined the concerns of the co-relationship between corporate governance and firm performance. We congratulate Dr Cai and wish him a successful and productive career.
The year 2013 was another productive one for research in the School. Research articles were published in international and national refereed journals including Pacific Accounting Review, International Journal of Auditing, Australian Accounting Review and the New Zealand Business Law Quarterly. Staff members presented several papers in international Accounting and Business Law conferences such as the Conference of the Accounting and Finance Association of Australia and New Zealand in Perth, WA, the American Accounting Association Annual Meeting in Anaheim, CA, the Asian Pacific Conference on International Accounting Issues in Bali, Indonesia, the Asian Academic Accounting Association Conference in Penang, Malaysia and the Australasian Law Teachers’ Conference in Canberra, ACT. The School of Accountancy Seminar Series had visiting overseas and local presenters, staff members as well as post graduate students. Seminar presentations were held at the Albany and Manawatu campuses throughout the year.

The School has an ambitious plan for a greater use of technology in improving the learning experiences of our students. In 2013, all distance papers in the School provided regular virtual classes using Adobe Connect. In 2014, we plan to introduce additional teaching and learning technologies.

With the newly designed School webpage launched in December 2013, the School is set for another exciting year ahead in 2014.

Corporate Governance and Firm Performance: A Study on the Trade-off Between Real and Accrual-Based Manipulation as Mediating Factors

Prior literature provides evidence that managers use both accruals earnings management (AM) and real activities manipulation (RM) to achieve desired earnings objective. But few have studied the role of governance on RM. Cohen et al. (2007) document firms switching from AM to RM after the passage of Sarbanes-Oxley Act (SOX). Lei expects RM could do more harm than AM on future performance. The implication is that opportunistic managers in better governance firms are more likely to manipulate earnings through RM such as reducing R&D expenses, resulting in worse future performance.

In Lei’s study, he will use 2-stage path analysis to examine the relationship between corporate governance and future performance through AM and RM as mediating factors. In the first stage, he will investigate whether corporate governance affects the trade-off between AM and RM. In the second stage, he will explore the consequence of each type of manipulations on future firm performance. Due to the study involving multiple dependent variables that could be correlated with each other, he will adopt some multivariate statistical methods in the analysis, such as PCA, clustering, and RDA.

Corporate Governance and Stock Price Synchronicity: An International Comparison

Stock price synchronicity is the tendency of stock prices to move in the same direction in a particular period of time. Morck, Yeung and Yu (MYY, 2000, using 1995 data, document that stock prices move together more (less) in low (high) GDP economies due to difference in variations in property rights arrangement of the sample countries. They also report that stock price synchronicity, defined as $R^2$ (coefficient of determination) from asset pricing model, is a useful measure of the amount of firm-specific information impounded in stock prices in international markets. Recent empirical research argues that $R^2$ does not capture firm-specific information (sales, ROA, ROE, and Size) and states that $R^2$ is affected by many other variables such as a country’s economic variables, and corporate governance measures. The question is whether GDP is the only driver of stock price synchronicity or whether firm-specific information also plays a role in stock price co-movement. The study investigates other determinants of stock price synchronicity beyond GDP specifically to explore the relation between $R^2$ and firm-specific information.
Since 1995, most of the world’s capital markets and economies have experienced many significant changes which have been brought about due to economic and corporate crises. The changes are mostly about the way corporations are governed. Most of the countries have incorporated regulatory, institutional, accounting standard-setting and CG reforms, e.g. the Sarbanes-Oxley Act (2002), Corporate Law Economic Reforms Program (CLERP, 2004), IFRS (2001), and Codes of corporate governance. There has also been a considerable shift in the political and economic systems of many of the countries of the world. These improvements in regulatory and institutional regimes and the shift towards the market system by many developing countries raise the question of whether these changes have any beneficial effects on the determinants and level of stock price co-movements. Therefore, the study investigates the effects of improved regulatory and institutional changes in reducing stock price synchronicity.

Disclosure of Corporate Code of Ethics

There have been increasing calls for corporate governance reforms in countries engaged in capitalistic pursuits in the past few decades. Subsumed in these calls is the drive to restore public interest and to promote better ethics among business professionals. In an era of increasing emphasis on corporate accountability, pressures for corporate betterment come not only from those who purportedly have a “stake” in corporations but also from the corporations themselves. This is reflected in the increasing number of corporations producing codes of ethics to show their ethical commitments.

Research into corporate codes of ethics has identified a variety of reasons why corporations produce codes of ethics. Most of such reasons tend to be functional and descriptive in nature and are not sufficiently insightful in their explanations. The purpose of this study is to go beyond functionality and provide a better understanding of the underlying reasons for ethical disclosures by corporations. Institutional theory is adopted to explain the conceptual component of the study, which includes a critical examination of the intricate relationships between business ethics and trust, the pressures confronting corporations, the prevalence of corporate codes of ethics, and the various reasons for code adoption. A set of propositions focused on the underlying reasons for code disclosures by companies is developed and their validity will be tested empirically by examining the ethics disclosures of the top 1000 U.S. companies between 2000 and 2010. It is hoped that such an analysis will help to explain the actions taken by the corporations to increase their ethics and trust propensity in light of regulatory guidance and any other motivations.

Firms’ Financial Accounting and Assurance Practices under Australian Carbon Tax and New Zealand’s Emission Trading Scheme: An Exploratory Study

The purpose of this study is to survey the carbon financial accounting practices of the companies affected under Australian Carbon Tax and New Zealand’s Emission Trading Scheme (ETS). It will present the findings as guidance on carbon financial accounting in the absence of a uniform standard. Added to this survey will be an examination of the relation between (1) firms’ characteristics; (2) firms’ carbon emission levels carbon emissions related disclosures and the way carbon accounting is being conducted in the affected companies.

The findings presented by this study will be useful for establishing a guideline for accountants and auditors to help affected companies financially account for carbon allowances. The findings will also be useful to accounting policy makers in understanding how and why the affected companies financially account for their carbon allowances in a certain way. This can further help the accounting policy makers in developing a uniform carbon financial accounting guidance, given that IASB is yet to issue draft guidance on the financial accounting of carbon emission. Lastly, with the scant amount of literature available in the field of financial accounting and assurance of carbon emissions under Carbon Tax and ETS, this project will also give meaningful insight to academics and researchers to further their studies into this subject.

Patching Up the Differences: An Exploration of Gang Identity in Whanganui

This research will explore adult NZ gang identity and the ways that visible signs of this identity have been interpreted by members of the Whanganui community. This research arose as a result of the District Council (Prohibition of Gang Insignia) Act 2009 (‘Gang Insignia Act 2009’) which allows the Whanganui District Council to make bylaws prohibiting the wearing of gang insignia in certain areas.

The ‘Gang Insignia Act 2009’ reflects a view that the wearing of gang insignia should be considered a social problem that requires legal intervention. My research will adopt a social constructionist perspective and will seek to discover the meanings attributed to gang insignia by members of the Whanganui community, how these meanings have developed, and the consequences arising from adopting the legislative meaning. My research will involve an analysis of media representations of ‘gangs’ alongside semi-structured interviews with gang members, the public, and other relevant parties in Whanganui.

Online Shopping: Pearls and Pitfalls for New Zealand Consumers – How to Increase Consumer Protection and Confidence

The general theme of my study will be to identify the legal issues faced by consumers shopping online and to develop ideas for improving consumer protection and confidence in online shopping. An increase in consumer confidence should lead to an increase in the levels of retail shopping online which would have flow on economic benefits.

Recent reports and surveys in New Zealand and Australia show that online shopping currently makes up 5-6% of all retail shopping and increased by around 12% in Australia in the 12 months ending in July 2011. With the level at between 5 and 6 % of all retail shopping there is scope for significant further growth in online shopping. Online shopping has significant economic benefits for retailers – among other things, they do not need to lease expensive retail space, they have reduced overhead costs and their customers can shop all hours. These benefits can lead to reduced prices for consumers and more shopping choices.

An OECD report released in November 2009 notes, “Given the significant benefits of e-commerce to the economy and to consumers, it is important for governments and stakeholders to work together to ensure that the benefits are fully realised, which includes finding ways to boost consumer confidence in online transactions.”
Discussion Paper Series

Editor: Professor Jill Hooks

The Discussion Paper Series of the School of Accountancy is intended to provide staff and postgraduate students of the School with a means of communicating new and developing ideas in order to facilitate academic debate. Discussion papers should not necessarily be taken as completed works or final expressions of opinion.

All discussion papers are quality-assured, being formally peer-reviewed prior to publication. Views expressed are those of the authors, and are not necessarily shared by the School of Accountancy.

Normally discussion papers may be freely quoted or reproduced provided proper reference to the author and source is given. When a discussion paper is issued on a restricted basis, notice of an embargo on quotation/reproduction will appear on this page.

Abstracts of discussion papers, and most full papers are available, as pdf documents, at our school’s webpage.

The Discussion Paper Series started in 1981. A list of all discussion papers published by the School is available at the back of each discussion paper. A hard copy of any full paper, provided it is in stock, may be obtained from:

Research Seminar Series

The School of Accountancy Research Seminar Series provides a valuable forum for researchers to share their research ideas, findings and policy recommendations in a variety of areas of accounting and business law. In this way they could share their ideas with, and receive feedback from the academic community as well as the wider public, including professionals. By providing an informal atmosphere that allows for active discussion, the seminar series is designed to benefit not only the presenters but also the participants. In addition, for members of the Institute of Chartered Accountants of New Zealand, attendance at the Seminar Series qualifies as Structured Continuing Professional Development (CPD).

Working Papers presented are available at the venue or from the website in PDF format or from Natalie Snyders (Albany), Inez Goldsworthy (Manawatu), and Nikki Batten (Wellington).

Seminars are usually held on Wednesday from 12pm to 1pm. Subject to availability of a suitable time slot, the School will contribute towards travel costs and accommodation (where appropriate) for visiting speakers from outside Albany and Manawatu.

If you wish to present a paper in the series, please contact the appropriate seminar convenor.

Executive Insight Programme 2013

The Executive Insight Programme is run on each campus with the local branch of the New Zealand Institute of Chartered Accountants (NZICA). The programme aims to give students insight into executive roles and the commercial decision-making process, and to broaden their views of potential career paths in accounting-related functions. Each participant works with a carefully selected host organisation over a three-day period, usually late in August. Participants receive a certificate on successful completion of the programme, but usually find that the main benefits are the contacts that they make and the insights that they gain into how organisations actually work. In 2013 the programme was in its twelfth consecutive year.

The NZICA 2013 Manawatu Executive Insight Programme ran from 26 August to 6 September 2013. There were five Massey Accountancy students (Stacey Cleland, Amber Renall, Andrew Sharrock, Ian Yang, Zoe Yang) and five host organisations (Iplex Pipelines, Palmerston North City Council (PNCC), CB Norwood, Mid Central Health and UCOL – Universal College of Learning) who participated in the programme in 2013. The overall winner was Stacey Cleland, and the second prize went to Ian Yang. The best presented report went to Stacey Cleland. The School of Accountancy has supported the programme for the last 12 years and takes this opportunity to wish the future participating students and the host organisations a successful programme in 2014.

Accountants to apply NZ lessons to Indonesia

The School of Accountancy and the Centre for Professional and Continuing Education (PaCE) were among numerous agencies to host 17 delegates from Indonesia’s Finance and Development Supervisory Board in Wellington recently.

The visiting accountants represented the government agency Badan Pengawasan Keuangan dan Pembangunan, (BPKP) as well as universities across Indonesia. The visitors took part in an intensive week long learning program with on the ground experience in New Zealand public sector accounting. They attended seminars hosted by Hutt City Council and Wellington City Council as well as New Zealand’s External Reporting Board and Massey’s School of Accountancy.

The Head of the School of Accountancy, Professor Fawzi Laswad, commented on the positive contribution the group’s efforts could have on the development of accounting practices in Indonesia. After the visit, the group of Indonesian accountants now plan to apply techniques learned in New Zealand to local government authorities in their own country.

Professor Roger Debreceny, University of Hawaii

Professor Roger Debreceny visited and gave a seminar at Albany Campus on 13 March 2013. The paper he presented is titled ‘How do individual investors react to earning announcements: Evidence from Google search analytics’.

This research involves discerning how individual investors react to accounting information. It employs information search activities that are more specific to earnings announcements. The study explores how search volume on Google captures investors’ information search behaviour around the earnings announcement day. The study finds that, over a range of investor relations search terms and search domains, search behaviour is associated with earnings surprise, particularly when earnings surprise is measured against a base of earnings consensus. Search is more strongly associated with positive earnings surprises than negative surprises, and more strongly associated with earnings surprises in search windows immediately after the announcement and, importantly, immediately prior to the announcement.

Lin’s research interests include corporate governance; moral and legal liabilities; environmental accounting and auditing, and accounting education – in particular the pedagogical approaches to teaching in the first year. Specific research most recently undertaken focussed on the ethics of boardroom decision making, this is coupled with an in-depth investigation into moral vs. legal liabilities using the case of James Hardie Industries and its treatment of asbestos liabilities. Further interest lies in the understanding of employer demands for, and tertiary provision of, generic competencies such as leadership, critical thinking and communication in the tertiary education process for business students - the development of professional and academic competencies, alongside technical accounting competencies, within the accounting curriculum in New Zealand.

Academic Programmes

Semesters and Summer School
The Massey University academic year is divided into three main teaching periods: Semester One, Semester Two and Semester 3 (Summer School). Most of the School's programmes of study and papers fit into these standard semester periods. The School's Summer study programmes have become increasingly popular.

Internal and Distance Learning Studies
Some papers in the School are offered internally and in Distance Learning mode. Distance Learning programmes offer opportunities for long distance study at the comfort of a student’s own environment. Distance Learning programmes may include contact or block courses. However these courses are being phased out as the School makes use of Digital Learning and Teaching through the Internet more frequently. In 2014, almost all contact courses are replaced with advances made in learning and teaching technologies.

Undergraduate Programmes

Bachelor of Accountancy (BAcc)
The Bachelor of Accountancy (BAcc) is a highly specialised degree, identifying you as having expertise in Accountancy. It is the degree for students who know they wish to specialise as Accountants and seek NZICA membership.

Accountancy Major in the Bachelor of Business Studies (BBS(Acct))
The BBS Accountancy major is very flexible and gives you the opportunity to have a concentration in a particular area of accountancy. You can also combine the Accountancy major with one offered by another Department to complete the BBS with a double major. Career options will be many and varied depending on the combination of papers you choose to take.

Graduate Diploma in Business Studies (GradDipBusStuds)
The Graduate Diploma in Business Studies (GradDipBusStuds) is designed for students who wish to develop new or additional professional skills to open up and enhance vocational possibilities. The GradDipBusStuds may be completed in one year of full-time study or over a period of time as part-time study.
Postgraduate Programmes

The courses of study offered by the School of Accountancy at the graduate level are aimed at preparing a more independent and inquiring mind.
