

DOCTORAL EXAMINATION INFORMATION

THINGS YOU NEED TO KNOW

- The GRS will advise you of your examination panel once all the reports have been received, the date has been finalised and a Convenor appointed. Normally two Examiners will attend your exam, but the Overseas Examiner may attend by video conference.
- The process for Creative Arts exams will vary slightly, but the GRS will work closely with you, your Supervisor and Academic Unit to ensure a schedule is agreed on and met by all the parties.
- If you wish to give a PowerPoint presentation please let the GRS know as soon as possible. If the exam is being held at the Albany or Wellington campus this could affect the room that will be booked for the exam.
- You are welcome to view the room prior to your exam, to do this please liaise with the GRS staff member who is arranging your oral exam. The rooms we use are quite busy and may not be available if you haven't arranged this in advance.
- A maximum of three Supervisors are permitted to attend the exam, it would be appreciated if you could please advise which of your Co-supervisor(s) will be attending so that they can be included in exam correspondence.
- The Convenor is responsible for facilitating the examination, and ensuring that the process is carried out in a fair and equitable way. They are also responsible for ensuring that any emendations are completed and approved in a timely manner after the oral examination.
- While the Supervisor(s) do not have an active role in the examination process, the Convenor may invite participation in discussions or seek comment on particular issues. Your Supervisor(s) are there as support only.
- If a confidentiality agreement or contract applied to your research, you may wish to consider placing an Embargo on your thesis.
- Now is a good time to consider any Copyright implications for your thesis.
- The Examiners reports will be released to you and your supervisors 5-10 working days prior to your oral exam. The exact timing may vary depending on when reports are submitted by your examiners. Should any of your reports not be received 5 working days prior to your exam we will have to postpone all arrangements to the next date everyone is available.

WHAT WILL HAPPEN ON THE DAY?

- The Examiners and Convenor will meet first to discuss the examination reports, and agree on who will address the Overseas Examiner's questions.
- You and your Supervisor(s) will then be invited into the exam room, and you will be asked to begin the exam with a brief presentation.
- If you are giving a PowerPoint presentation, please bring a copy of your presentation on a USB drive, which we will connect to our laptop. NB some rooms may require you to bring your own laptop to connect to a projector.
- At the end of your presentation the Examiners will present you with their questions, and a discussion may ensue.
- Once the Examiners are satisfied that their questions have been answered, you and your Supervisor(s) will be asked to leave the room whilst they deliberate and decide your examination result, and any emendations that you may need to complete.
- You and your Supervisor(s) will then be asked to rejoin the exam, at which point the Convenor should advise you verbally of the examination outcome, what additional work is required to be completed, who will be checking the emendations, and when you are expected to submit the final approved copies of your thesis.
- You are not considered to have passed your examination until all the required emendations have been approved – so don't be discouraged if you are not congratulated at the end of the exam.

POSSIBLE EXAMINATION OUTCOMES

- Pass
The thesis meets the required standard for the award of the Doctoral degree. This means that it is of acceptable standard to pass with very minor emendations of a presentational nature i.e. typographical or formatting that can be completed within 1-2 weeks and approved by the supervisor.
- Minor Emendations Required
The thesis will meet the required standard for the award of the Doctoral degree on satisfactory completion of the recommended emendations. These may include the rewriting of a section/sections, reorganising material, improving or clarifying an argument or adding or omitting material that has been overlooked or deemed unnecessary. This should take up to 3 months for a full-time student and 4 months for a part-time student.
- Major Emendations Required
The thesis will meet the required standard for the award of the Doctoral degree on satisfactory completion of major emendations. These may include re-analysis of data, rewriting of chapters or general correction of sections that are not logical or coherent. This should take up to 6 months for a full-time student and 9 months for a part-time student.
- Re-examination
The thesis does not meet the required standard for the award of the Doctoral degree, but has sufficient merit that the required standard may be met following further research, re-analysis of data, and/or synthesis of information. The thesis will be required to be resubmitted and examined again by the entire examination panel, and the panel may request another oral examination. This means that the emendations are sufficiently extensive that they require up to 12 months full-time and 18 months part-time study. If more time than this is required then the thesis should fail.
- Fail
The thesis does not meet the required standard for the award of the Doctoral degree.

AFTER THE EXAM

- You should not have any contact with your Examiners whilst you are under examination; if they are required to check your emendations they should be sent through the Convenor.
- Once your emendations have been checked (by either your Supervisor or Examiner(s), the Convenor should be notified, and they will then notify yourself and the GRS.
- You then need to prepare the final requirements to complete your doctoral degree:
 - 2 hardbound copies of your thesis submitted to the GRS
 - The following should be uploaded to the Library. The GRS will receive notification once your upload has been completed.
 - 1 PDF file containing your full thesis. Where applicable the DRC16 Statement of Contribution form for each publication in your thesis should be included in the appendices
 - A completed Copyright and Digital Declaration form along with any copyright permissions you have obtained
 - Your citation. You should have both versions of your citation ready to enter directly into the submission form.
- The DRC will then approve your completion at their next meeting, provided the GRS is in receipt of everything in time to be included on the Agenda (generally closes 10 days prior to the meeting)
- After the DRC meeting you will be emailed a letter confirming you have completed the requirements for your doctoral degree, and are eligible to graduate.
- To receive your degree scroll you need to apply to graduate. Once you complete you will receive a notification in your student portal inviting you to apply. If you do not have a notification you can request one be sent.
- Please be careful not to use the honorific “Dr” until you have your degree certificate in your hand – it is only to be used once the degree has been awarded.

More information about the examination process can be found in the Doctoral Web Book.
